BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES.

PAUL DEAN.

M. E. and Rev. Comp. PAUL DEAN was born in Barnard, Windsor County, Vt., March 28th, 1782. He passed his youth in agricultural labor, in attending common schools, in academical and biblical studies, and in school teaching. In the year 1806 he commenced the christian ministry at Montpelier, Vt.; from thence, in 1810, he removed to New Hartford, N. Y., and in 1813 he came to reside in Boston. He was for many years the pastor of the First Universalist Church, in Boston; and was subsequently settled over the "Central Universalist Society" in 1823, being its first pastor, where he officiated till 1840, discharging his duties as pastor and friend, with faithfulness, ability and success. Of late years he has resided at Framingham, Mass. He early became a life member of the American Bible Society, and of the American Colonization Society. He was also a member of the School Committee in Boston, several years. This faithful teacher in the christian church has ever been a most devoted and earnest member of our Order. His public addresses, which are numerous, bear the impress of a mind which realized the importance and the excellent tendency of masonic principles: there is a fervency of attachment to its teachings, which, emanating from so good, so pure a companion, was strongly instrumental in sustaining them, when such support was so much needed: it cheered the wavering, it rebuked the vacillating, it crushed the demon of its opposition; and perhaps it is not too eulogistic to assert that the name of Paul Dean will stand second to none in the roll of that fame, due to those who dared to contend for the right, at a period when courage and constancy among masons, were in the minority. He perilled all for truth—it prevailed: and under the vine and the fig-tree of its revival and diffusion, he was permitted to enjoy the results of the long continued contest and final victory.

The activity of his masonic career may be deduced by an enumeration of the various bodies with which he was associated—and this was not, like so many others, a mere titular associa- tion. He worked while his day lasted. What he deemed good in principle, he favored by action. M. E. Comp. Dean was initiated, passed and raised in Center Lodge, No. 6, at East Rutland, Vt., during the winter of 1805. He received the Chapter Degrees in Horeb R. A. Chapter, No. 7, at New Hartford, N. At a special meeting of St. Paul's Chapter, July 9, 1857, Comp. Clement A. Walker offered the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted and ordered to be recorded, and a copy sent to the afflicted family:

"WHEREAS, in the exercise of that infinite wisdom which we cannot fathom, but in which we can always safely confide, it has pleased the Grand Architect of the Universe to call, from labor on earth, to rest and refreshment in the Temple above, our late Companion and Brother, CALVIN WHITING; and whereas, while we know that this heavy loss to us is unspeakable gain to him, we would yet place on perpetual record a testimonial of our sense of our bereavement, and our respect and love for the departed.

Therefore, Resolved, That, in the death of our late Companion, CALVIN WHITING, we mourn the loss of a true-hearted Brother, of a loving and loved Companion, of a faithful and exemplary officer, of a steadfast friend, and of an honest man;—That, though darkness and silence enshroud his mortal remains, yet we rejoice in the assurance that light and gladness are his eternal portion, and that, like his brethren of old, he has but made the "Exodus" from the "bondage" of earth, to "the promised land" of heaven;—That, though we would not recall him to the trials and vicissitudes of earthly life, yet, for long years to come we shall sadly miss his genial smiles, his hearty grasp, and his cheerful salutation at our assemblings; and his earnest and kindly "good night" at our separations;—That, to his lonely widow we offer our tenderest sympathy, in this her hour of affliction and sore bereavement;—That, as an outward and simple token of our sorrow, the usual insignia of mourning be worn by this Chapter for the term of ninety days."

"Voted, That two hundred dollars, from the funds of the Chapter, be given to widow Whiting."

His strict integrity, good judgment, and kind and amiable disposition, caused him to be highly respected and esteemed by all who became acquainted with him.

He received the first three degrees in Masonry in St. John's Lodge, March 1, 1812—was Senior Deacon in 1817-18—Senior Warden in 1819—and Master from 1819 to 1822, 1826 to 1828, 1830 to 1831, 1846 to 1848; and was Deputy Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts in 1848. At the laying of the cornerstone of Bunker-Hill Monument, June 17, 1825, he held the important and responsible position of Grand Marshal. He was exalted in St. Paul's Chapter Dec. 23, 1823—was admitted a member Feb. 17, 1824; and held the office of R. A. Capt. in 1825. He had received the Ineffable degrees, up to the 32d inclusive. He was an excellent presiding officer in the Lodge, and performed the duties of every station he was called to fill, in the various branches of the Institution, with accuracy and true dignity.

He was taken sick in November, 1852, and was released from his sufferings January 4, 1853. His funeral was attended by a large number of his Masonic brethren, who deeply felt the loss they had sustained. At a meeting of St. Paul's Chapter, January 18, 1853, Comp. Dame announced that since the last meeting our worthy and esteemed friend and Companion, Ferdinand E. White, had been called away by death; and moved that a committee be appointed to prepare and present suitable resolutions on the occasion. Comps. Dame, Lovell and Harwood were appointed said committee, and they subsequently presented the following Report, which was unanimously adopted:

"WHEREAS, St. Paul's Royal Arch Chapter have, with deep sorrow, become apprised of the death of their beloved and highly esteemed Companion, FERDINAND E. WHITE, therefore

Resolved, That in his death one of the brightest lights in the Masonic horizon has been extinguished; that one of the most devoted friends of the Order has been removed from among us.

Resolved, That his work has been well done; and that few, if any, in this community, have done more to sustain and elevate the character of the Institution of Freemasonry, whether we refer to his masonic efforts, or to the maintenance of that spotless character as a man, which ever sheds its lustre upon all Associations with which its possessor is connected.

Resolved, That we deeply sympathise with the afflicted family of our deceased Companion, and that we tender to them the assurance of our sincere participation in their heavy sorrow.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered upon the records of the Chapter, and that an attested copy thereof be sent to the family of our deceased Companion."

WILLIAM INGALLS, M. D.

Companion INGALLS was born in Newburyport, on the 3d of May, 1769, and died in Wrentham, Norfolk County, September 9, 1851. He graduated at Harvard University in 1790, of which class there is but one surviving member, Hon. Josiah Quincy, who was made a Mason in 1795, in St. John's Lodge. Comp. Ingalls was Professor of Anatomy and Surgery in Brown University for several years, commencing in 1813. He practiced his profession in Boston for more than forty years. Declining health induced him to seek retirement in the country; but his social disposition led him frequently to return to the city for intercourse with his old friends and companions. Benevolence and an enlarged charity were his nature, not his virtues. Kindness was habitual with him. Deceived and wronged by one man, he would, nevertheless, trust in the honor of the next comer, to be, perhaps, again overreached. Gentle as a mother in the sick room; confident, because of his knowledge; skillful, because careful; gracious in his manners, and dignified, though affectionate in his general deportment, he was loved very dearly by his family, and also respected and honored by them. He received his degrees in St. John's Lodge, and was admitted to membership in February, 1805, continuing a member until his death. He has exalted in St. Paul's Chapter, December 23, 1823, and admitted to membership the following February, and so continuing until his death. He was also a member of the Boston Encampment and the Boston Council of Royal Masters. He was much attached to the Masonic Institution, and was ever ready and willing to assist a worthy Brother or Companion—his widow or orphan.

JACOB AMEE.

Companion AMEE was born in Boston in 1780, and died there Dec. 12, 1844. He learned the Sail-makers' trade, serving his time with Tripp & Hale, in the old Ship Yard where Battery March Street now is; and carried on business for himself from 1805 until his death. He was a person of strict integrity, and enjoyed the confidence and esteem of a very large circle of friends and acquaintances. He was a member of the Common Council of the City of Boston in 1829-30-31-32-33. He received the first three degrees in Masonry in St. John's Lodge, Boston, in 1813, and was admitted a member thereof the same year—was Senior Deacon of that Lodge in 1817, Junior Warden in 1818, Senior Warden in 1820, and afterwards Treasurer for several years. He was exalted in St. Paul's Chapter, March 16, 1819. On the 18th of May, of the same year, he presented the Chapter an elegant

Chisel, Mallet and Box, for which valuable present the following vote of thanks was passed :

"Voted, That the thanks of St. Paul's Chapter be presented to our worthy Companion JACOB AMEE, for his valuable donation made to them this evening; that they view, with lively gratitude and satisfaction, this expression of his good will and attachment to the Institution generally, and the interest specially manifested by it for the prosperity of this Chapter;—That this vote be recorded, and a copy thereof transmitted him by the Secretary."

He received the Orders in Boston Encampment of Knight Templars in 1820, and was admitted a member the same year. He served as their Warder four years, and as Treasurer nineteen years: which office he held at the time of his death.

JOSEPH EVELETH.

Companion EVELETH was born in Salem, Mass. in 1794, and died in Watertown, Mass. in 1856. He was engaged in mercantile pursuits in Boston for several years, and was always considered an upright and honest man, in all his dealings and business transactions. Comp. Eveleth was made a Mason in St. John's Lodge, Boston, in 1817, and was admitted to membership the same year. He was Marshal of that Lodge in 1818-19—Junior Warden in 1820—and Master in 1823. He was exalted in St. Paul's Chapter, Feb. 15, 1820, and admitted a member Feb. 17, 1824—held the office of Captain of the Host in 1825, and that of Scribe in 1826-27. He had also received the Ineffable degrees, including the 32d. He was a member of the Common Council of the City of Boston from 1826 to 1831, inclusive; also a member of the House of Representatives in 1829-30-31-36-37-38-39-53; and Sheriff of the County of Suffolk fifteen years.

JOSEPH HALL.

Companion HALL was born in Methuen, Mass. June 26, 1793, and died in Boston, December 31, 1859. In 1809, he went to Camden, Maine, where he ever afterward, with brief exceptions, resided. In 1813, he was elected an officer in the Militia, and was rapidly promoted to the office of Colonel, by which title he was afterwards generally distinguished. During the war of 1812, he commanded a detachment of men, and the parapets upon Eaton's and Jacob's Points were erected under his supervision. In 1816, he married Mary, daughter of Capt. Nathan Howe, of Shrewsbury, Mass., who, having born him six children, died in 1825, leaving behind her the cherished remembrances which hallow the name of the faithful wife and good mother. He was again married in 1827, to Eliza, daughter of William Parkman, Esq., of Camden, Maine, by whom he had seven children, all of whom, with the exception of two by his first wife, survived him. After the formation of Waldo County, in 1827, he received the appointment of Sheriff, and in 1830 the appointment of Post Master, at Camden. For some years Comp. Hall had largely mingled in the politics of his State, and the great energy and uncompromising traits of his character, naturally indicated him as a leader fit for the Democracy of the Waldo District, and he was consequently elected, after a spirited canvass, the first Representative to Congress from that District. He was again elected to the same office in 1835. It would be unjust to the memory of Comp. Hall, not to place upon this brief record of his life, the fact, that his course in Congress was fully approved by his constituents; and that the subsequent history of the country has borne witness to his wisdom, foresight and sagacity. In 1838, he received the appointment of Measurer, in the Boston Custom House, which place he retained until 1846, when the office of Navy Agent for the Port of Boston was conferred upon him, without solicitation, by his personal friend and associate in Congress, President Polk; which responsible position he retained until 1849, after the election of President Taylor. In the Fall of the same year he was the Democratic candidate for Mayor of Boston, receiving the entire vote of the party, a conclusive evidence of the high estimation attained by his residence in the metropolis of New England. In the intervening time between that period and 1857, he spent with his family, in quiet retirement, upon his farm in Camden, distinguished alike by the interest he ever felt for the place of his home, and the graceful hospitalities and courtesies extended to his numerous friends. Upon the election of President Buchanan, he was again tendered the place of Weigher, Guager and Measurer in the Boston Custom House, which position he retained till removed from it by the hand of death.

He received the first three degrees in Amity Lodge, Camden, Me., and was afterwards Master of that Lodge; was exalted in St. Paul's Chapter June 15, 1847—admitted a member the following September—and was Treasurer of the Chapter in 1849. He was also a member of the Boston Encampment; and was a worthy and esteemed member of each branch of the Institution. Endowed by nature with great physical power, and possessing a vigorous and well balanced intellect, he evinced an ability commensurate to all the stations which he was called to fill. His was a sound mind in a sound body. Hence all of his official acts, and particularly his course while a member of Congress, were marked by that good sense and judgment which never failed him upon the most trying occasions, and which he retained to the close of life. His private life was almost without reproach; and his reputation for honesty was proverbial. Hence, though rich in the possession of a good conscience, he was comparatively poor in worldly goods; and though his various official positions afforded him frequent opportunities of enriching himself, he left them all, content with only his hire, and the approving plaudit of "well done, good and faithful servant;" bequeathing to his children only the priceless legacy of a good example. With him it was "not all of life to live." He lived not for himself alone—the generous sympathy of his great heart embraced the world. His was the hand of charity, well accustomed to those kindly yet unobtrusive acts which bless the giver as well as the receiver, and which were only prescribed by his limited means. His last illness, brief and painful as it was, he bore with manly patience and heroic fortitude. Contented, unrepining and resigned, he bid a cheerful adieu to all the attachments of life, and calmly and trustingly prepared himself for his last repose, "like one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him, and lies down to pleasant dreams." He died like a man and a christian, with an unwavering faith in the infinite goodness of Him who doeth all things well—to whose inscrutable will he reverently bowed—and to whose unfailing mercy he humbly and hopefully trusted. Thus has a good man gone.

THOMAS PAYSON.

Companion PAYSON was born in Peterboro', N. H. in 1760, and died in that town August 20, 1844, aged 84 years. He graduated at Harvard College in 1784, and soon after came to reside in Boston. He was Usher in Franklin School under Mr. Bullard, several years, and succeeded him as its Master. He was admitted a member of St. John's Lodge, Boston, in 1819, and was its Secretary from 1822 to 1827 inclusive; was exalted in St. Andrew's Chapter July 27, 1820; was a member of the Boston Council of Royal Masters—its presiding officer in 1820-21, and its Recorder in 1825-26-27. As an instructor of youth he had few superiors, and ever gave satisfaction to both parents and pupils. He was a sincere and devout Mason, a good christian, and an honest man.

ASA BULLARD.

Companion BULLARD was born in Salem, N. H. and died in Boston in 1826. He graduated at Dartmouth College in 1793, and was Master of the Franklin School, in Boston, several years. He studied medicine, and was in the practice of his profession from 1805 until his decease. He was made a Mason in St. John's Lodge, Boston, in 1820; was admitted a member the same year; and was its Treasurer in 1822. He was District Deputy Grand Master of the First Masonic District in 1824. He received the degrees in St. Paul's Chapter in 1821, and became a member Feb. 19, 1822. He took an active interest in the Masonic Institution, and was at all times ready and willing to give both his services and means for the relief of the worthy indigent Brother or Companion, his widow and orphan.
